

20th Anniversary Flashback

February 18, 1998: When asked by a Bay Times reporter whether we need a new church on Kent Island, Pastor Todd responded, “Kent Island and its surrounding neighborhoods are somewhat unique. It’s a fast growing community that has relatively few churches. In short, I believe there is a demand that exceeds that which existing churches can presently supply. I hope that Safe Harbor is one of many new churches that will spring to life in our community to address those needs. Additionally, Queen Anne’s County has never had an organized Presbyterian church, even though hundreds of Presbyterians reside here. Many of them have been trying for a long time to get a church going on Kent Island while traveling across the bridge each Sunday to worship at Evangelical Presbyterian Church (EP) in Annapolis. As a response to their efforts, EP hired me last November to help get this church going; and, based on the overwhelming turnout at our six ‘practice’ services (over 100 people each Sunday since January 11), it’s obvious there is definitely a need for Safe Harbor.”
